FARE FAC

SAMPLER

Foreword

IT MAY HAVE SEEMED LIKE THE LONGEST YEAR OF OUR LIVES, BUT
NOW THAT IT IS OVER,
MOST OF US
CAN LOOK BACK AND

Remember

THE
BIG EVENTS
AND HAPPY MOMENTS.
IN THIS,
THE NINETEENTH VOLUME
OF THE FARE FAC SAMPLER,
WE OF THE STAFF
HAVE PICTURED
THE EVENTS
THAT WE HOPE
YOU WILL REMEMBER
FOR YEARS AND YEARS TO COME.

Dedication

Mr. Philip J. Fuller

His patience and our practice placed us in the top group.

His teaching wasn't confined to the usual classroom.

Even the bandmaster recorded grades.

Because

- . . . you have been a friend and a companion to both students and faculty
- . . . you have fostered respect and pride in our school
- . . . you have shared with us your knowledge and talents
- . . . you have inspired and encouraged us at all times
- . . . you are remembered in our hearts at Fairfax High School we dedicate this 1954 Fare Fac Sampler to you . . .

Mr. Philip James Fuller

A D M I N I S T R A T I O N

We are justifiably proud of the individuals who make up the Administration of Fairfax High School . . . They are the pillars supporting our school structure . . . We know them as the people who authorize our "snow days" and consequently our extra days in June . . . But from our first days in the eighth grade until we hold our diplomas in our hands, the Administration is functioning in our behalf . . . And with our appreciation for Mr. Woodson and the School Board is a certain pride when we realize that their aspirations are synonymous with ours . . . Without them, our hopes would be mere hopes.

Remember...

Their days were long ones . . . we saw them contributing to Fairfax High in a variety of ways . . . sometimes wet and cold from an early bus duty, or perhaps loyally supporting a faculty basketball game but always sharing with us their knowledge and interests . . . despite our innocent youth, we realized that book reports, homework, and those inevitable labs had a purpose . . . while we enjoyed an occasional holiday, they attended faculty meetings, combining efforts toward a better Fairfax High . . . extra help after 3:11 assured us of their sincere interests . . . yes, we'll REMEMBER our faculty for what they really are—understanding individuals who gave their time and talents toward our future . . . not only were they our instructors but also our friends with whom we shared experiences, confidences, and fun.

C L A S S E S

The true spirit of a school is its student body . . . A school without students is dead, as inanimate as a deserted town — a cold, bleak structure that can be transformed as if by magic into a hustling, bustling city of its own, 1,800 strong, come nine o'clock Monday morning . . . The classes of Fairfax High School are its spirit, its life . . . The population, from the tow-headed eighth grader to the misty-eyed senior, will remember laughing together, crying together, working together, striving to uphold the ideal of our motto — SEMPER PROGREDIENS — Always Progressing . . . Yes, the '53-'54 Rebel spirit deserves to be remembered, not only by the seniors, in whom a special place is reserved for it, but by all of us who are reading this volume and who shall read it twenty years from now and say to ourselves, "Remember that gang of '54? What a year!"

SENIOR CLASSES

Remember...

We thought that we were going to loaf this year—suddenly we found ourselves surrounded by too many “Senior musts” . . . that Maryland U. trip was fun despite the sun and score . . . there was the realization that we’ll be guests at the next Homecoming . . . we felt a special unity and pride having our own Christmas party with the oft-repeated “Merry Christmas” . . . did people really spend their holidays in the Library of Congress? . . . the organized chaos of ordering caps and gowns and announcements made graduation seem that much closer . . . the play with anxious moments was our last class project . . . quite suddenly we found ourselves in the midst of graduation . . . blue and white tassels waved before our misty eyes as our steps to “Pomp and Circumstance” drew us nearer diplomas and congratulations . . . with a common love for Fairfax High and a wealth of precious memories, we go our separate ways . . . “We’ve crossed the river; the ocean lies beyond.”

Remember...

We resolved to make these last two years even better—but the new title of “upper-classmen” not only added fun but also new responsibilities . . . proving theorems that we forgot to study and cramming for American history reminded us that we didn’t know everything . . . the knees and voices that shook at play tryouts were strong and confident on the opening night of “No More Homework” despite the new and different curtain call . . . a concentrated effort raised money while prom committees made elaborate spending plans . . . head-over-heels in paint, crepe paper and “top-secret” sessions in the gym, we worked hard to give our seniors a memorable prom . . . and finally displaying shiny new class rings, we were proud to be members of the class of ‘55.

SOPHOMORE CLASSES

Remember...

We reached that in-between stage — no longer meager freshmen — not yet proud upper classmen . . . yet there was an air of confidence as we decorated the spacious gym for dime dances . . . and found it even more spacious at clean-up time after our Harvest Swing . . . a genuine interest in our orphan, Cho Yang Suk, proved that we sophomores do have a sense of responsibility . . . as we aimed high for the varsity squads, we also discovered Silas Marner, dissected frogs and wondered if infinitives really could be so important to life . . . time passed rapidly and mingled with the sudden realization of the end of our sophomore year was a certain sadness and pride.

Remember...

The label "Freshman" gave new strength to our hopes . . . we no longer stood in awe of the two-way traffic . . . a new determination grew with us as we worked hard for those first real quality credits . . . the anxiety of try-outs, the new excitement that came from being a part of the team and feeling needed made this Freshman year rare and memorable . . . we punched holes for Kuder tests supposedly discovering our true interests . . . halls echoed Latin Christmas carols as we continued our first year of a foreign language . . . chances of Junior Honor Society prodded us onward as we tackled parts of speech and conquered Algebra I . . . a spirit of cooperation made the class project of an inspirational bookshelf in the library seem worthwhile . . . while seniors paused for one last look, we freshmen were filled with dreams of waiting happiness.

Remember...

We felt so very small—a sharp contrast to the sudden largeness of Fairfax High School—varieties of teachers and quonsets replaced our security of elementary days . . . even the little mishap of leaving one's locker combination on the inside loomed large before us . . . loyalty and pride were evident as our own cheerleaders spurred the "Baby Rebels" on through a victorious year . . . guidance and orientation came to us through the helpful advice of our ESSO teachers . . . exploratory classes provided an opportunity for making sound decisions toward future curricula . . . enthusiasm in the magazine drive and Christmas Welfare Program labeled the eighth grade as a "go-getter class" . . . months passed and suddenly we no longer felt small but proud and happy as we gathered our achievements for our parents on Eighth Grade night and sponsored our very own dance in the spring.

CODE OF HONOR

- To be honest in thought and deed.
- To promote clean, wholesome thought and speech.
- To take good care of school equipment and property.
- To be friendly and helpful to schoolmates and teachers.
- To be helpful to student-officers, patrols, monitors, and bus drivers.
- To encourage and foster proper conduct at all school activities at home and away.
- To use what the school offers to better oneself.

A C T I V I T I E S

Extra - curricular interests added hours, points and responsibilities to our schedules . . . Dependable leaders rewarded our votes and we found ourselves eager to be followers . . . Meetings, practices, rehearsals and deadlines provided anxious moments but also the satisfying feeling that came with a sense of accomplishment . . . These "extras" asked for our time and co-operation and got them because our organizations were characterized by interest and enthusiasm . . . Each peck at the typewriter, each speech by a president, and each impressive initiation was part of our accomplished interests . . . Pep rallies, programs, meetings, time, and talents — these made Fairfax High School mean more to us than books, homework, and term papers . . . We worked happily and saw our progress, feeling grateful for having been a part of it.

Our Student Government

Remember

. . . our Student Government's story actually began last summer with Boys' and Girls' State at VPI in July . . . The result of summer planning began early with the appearance of flowers on teachers' desks on that hot September 8th and the announcement of "Better Citizenship" as the goal for the year . . . Room 219 was soon filled on Monday morning with the newly-elected representatives and senators . . . The suggestion box in the office made its appearance . . . College Day proved an event worth the hard work put into it . . . Christmas cheer was spread to the homes of fifty-two needy families with the annual welfare program . . . The magazine drive succeeded as our enthusiastic student body passed the $14,000 mark in total sales . . . Our Student Government came to a fitting climax with the election and inauguration of the officers for the coming year.

The Fare Fac Sampler

Seventh period found the yearbook staff working daily mid dress patterns and sewing machines in Home Ec Room 212 . . . The "dummy" developed, however slowly—meeting its deadline page by page . . . Picture schedules were shattered by Julius Caesar trips or unexpected snows when we needed clouds . . . Captions and copy found us scratching our heads for that one particular word . . . Typewriters tapped to the tune of Saturday afternoon music as staff members showed real interest in our 1954 SAMPLER . . . Copywriters, typists, the editor-in-chief—everyone sold ads and despite this being "a bad business year" came through with the necessary funds . . . And as we turn the pages of our SAMPLER we'll be happy to Remember.

FAIR FACTS

'53-'54 Newspaper Heads

Anne Corse,
Editor

Mr. Friedlander,
Sponsor

Bill Fox,
Production Editor

Janice Hoover,
Copy Editor

Remember

... if you can, the second day of school last September ... We were just settling down to the "old grind", when what should we hear but the cry, "Get your issue of FAIR FACTS, hot off the presses" ... Yes, there was a four-page edition packed with news that had just happened the day before ... The school paper's largest staff in history, led by Editors Bill Fox and Anne Corse, soon established the precedent that if there were news to be found, it would be in print before most of us knew of it ... Between the bi-weekly issues, the staff found time to secure extra funds by sponsoring the football programs and the annual Sweet-heart Dance ... Room 109 hummed with FAIR FACTS talk, and the printed word was soon in the hands of the student body.

Our Band . . . The Spirit of F. H. S.

In blue and gray unison, gold braid sparkling in the sun, the Fairfax Band marches by . . . Strutting majorettes and drum majors stepping high to their new midwestern cadence won not only for the band but for Fairfax High School the praise and admiration of all onlookers . . . Superior rating in the district festival plus excellent individual performance exemplified both talent and instruction . . . Unique formations of our marching band prodding our teams on to victory, strains from the New World Symphony, enthusiastic performances of the Reserve Band—all these show the versatility and true spirit of the Fairfax High School Band—an integral part of our Fairfax memories.

We waited with bated breath wondering whether or not we would be one of the chosen few . . . Was that my name? . . . And somehow we found ourselves on the stage . . . Our hands shook as we tried to balance the thorny rose and flaming candle . . . Mr. Chesley's congratulations were the icing on our cake of joy . . . We were members of the Gordon E. Our Achievement Great

A white carnation and a flaming candle held a wealth of significance to members of the Junior Honor Society . . . We worked to make our big project of selling Christmas cards a success . . . Leaving to the school a priceless gift in the Honor Code plaques, we were always striving toward high ideals and remembering, unconsciously perhaps, what George Bernard Shaw said—"We are the windows through which we see the world" . . . Leadership, Scholarship, Citizenship, Service, Character—our Junior Honor Society, an inspiration to even greater achievements in Fairfax High School.

A T H L E T I C S

Fairfax High's 1953-54 athletic program undoubtedly had its widest selection of inter-scholastic and intramural sports activities in recent years . . . From that afternoon in August when the boys out for football began working the kinks out, to the final round of the Schoolboy Golf tournament in June, the department's accomplishments were seen as a step toward even wider programs in the years to come . . . Not only was the emphasis placed on the boys' sports, but girls' athletics were given a boost by no less than six competing teams throughout the year . . . The founding of a Girls' Athletic Association gave every girl an abundance of recreational activities . . . Our athletic department's quest of more and better athletic activities, both in competition and in recreation, made strides toward an increase of the physical, social and spiritual rewards that a sound athletic program can give to its participating members and to the school.

The dance afterwards during which we met many old friends . . .
And finally, the end of a memorable evening.

Our Homecoming court certainly outshined the stars.

Remember

. . . The dance the girls anticipated . . . The strange varieties of Daisy Maes and Li'l Abners . . . Those ridiculous vegetable corsages . . . Marryin' Sam adding spice to the evening . . . We carried our memories home, leaving a gym of corn stalks and pumpkins behind for the clean-up crew.

Mary and Don took their vows before "Marrin' Sam" Holsinger.

Sadie Hawkins

Sock Hop

Look! No Shoes!

"Check your shoes at the door!" . . . How proud we were of our prizes for the most original socks . . . As we bunny-hopped through the gym doors, we left behind us more pleasant memories wrapped in green and white streamers.

Remember

... the soft rustling dresses floating by as the warm candlelight scattered dancing shadows about the festive room . . . The music department performed wonders creating that enchanting land of candy canes and carolers . . . The Sno Ball court represented every class's contribution to this gay evening . . . And as we danced, we suddenly realized that Christmas was here and one-third of our school year was over.

Yuletide Season saw Carol Keyes crowned Snow Ball Queen.

Mistletoe and Merriment ... our Sno Ball

First Row: Mary Gerwig, Vail Berkman, Jinny Stein, Carol Talbot, Carol Keyes, Nancy Yowell, Janie Laugh-ton, Helen Wisner, Betsy Isenberg.

Bill and Nancy . . . King and Queen for a night.

Remember

. . . The surprised feeling upon seeing our cafeteria transformed into a dreamy loveland . . . The tense moment when the court came through the heart of roses . . . The crowning of the king and queen by our own little cupid . . . Goodnight, Sweetheart brought to a close this special night.

Hearts and Flowers ... Sweetheart Dance

Results of a chaotic school day.

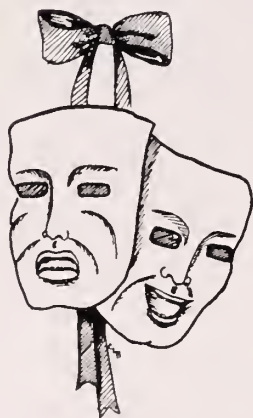

Home Ec wasn't Ronnie's line.

Remember

... That hilarious first run without playbooks ... Painting the set ... The chaos of dress rehearsals ... Those opening-night Butterflies ... And the feeling of a job well done as the curtain closed for the final time on No More Homework.

The word from the side.

Jean and the supporting cast.

One for the money.

Two for the show.

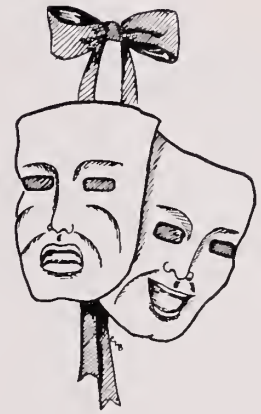

Remember

... the anxiety over tryouts ... Practice every other night ... The double cast ... Forgetting the lines ... The sideburns and beards ... That feeling as the curtain went up and our Senior Class came "Smilin' Through."

Three to get ready.

Four to go.

Mrs. Edmondson and Miss Story, along with Bill and Mr. Mac, kept our sales soaring.

Magazine

Despite ill-fitting prizes, we remained ambitious.

The eating of lemons or lollipops
. . . Beanies and a grab in the fishbowl by the high salesman...
The triumphant struggle for those attractive clothes . . . The thrill of accomplishment as we set a new record for Fairfax.

"I've met my quota, have you?"
. . . "No, I've just made contact"
. . . Familiar words during the magazine drive . . .

Remember

the stiff competition between the teams, and for the monkey . . .
The Wee-Stinke family.

We all avidly watched those rising thermometers.

Drive

Nancy and Jimmy summoned us to the daily handful from the fishbowl.

Sophomore, Elizabeth Moore, wins F. H. S. spelling championship.

We'll long

Remember

these students' outstanding contributions to Fairfax High . . . They helped put F. H. S. on the map by the many newspaper articles written about their feats and their appearance on T. V. and radio . . .

Jerry Eaton speaks for democracy.

The "Trumpet Trio" was our T. V. contribution.

Kenneth Dorward gained recognition for his "Burning Question in Virginia."

Jo Chamblin's super salesmanship led us through the Magazine Drive.

By displaying that extra initiative and the will to win, they've become examples to us and we're extremely proud of them.

Seniors experienced a thrilling sensation of pride as their senior wing materialized . . . Our two exchange students, Hannah and Martin, brought to us a clearer understanding of the world . . . Artistic talents bloomed forth in our bright, spacious art rooms . . . And our administration gladly moved into their comfortable new offices.

Time has not stood

Obvious progress will be still at Fairfax High among our new memories.

We met Fairfax's first triplets . . . Didn't mind being guinea pigs for those ambitious students who helped in our clinic . . . Watched our teams with pride, sitting on the new bleachers . . . And, at last, we had a real ticket booth—wasn't the inscription on the plaque inspiring?

And now a year has passed—we've had . . .

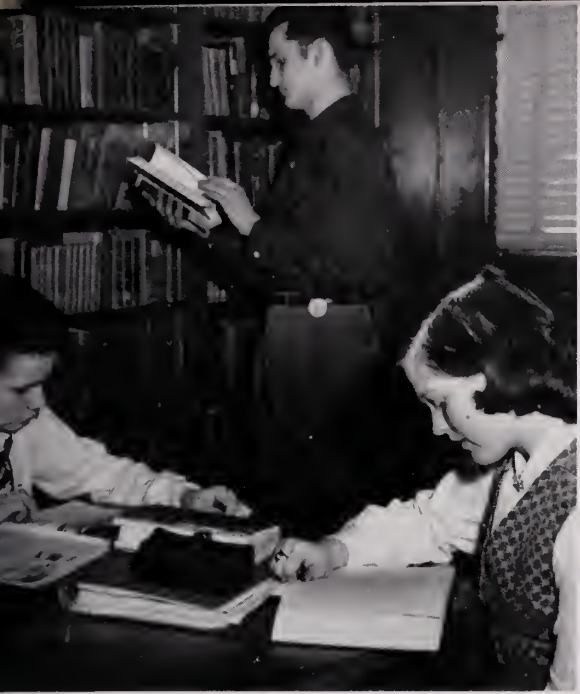

our serious moments

our spasmodic steadies and our first adequate snow

our lighter memories

our best intentions

thoughts for others and concern for ourselves

lasting friendships ... we'll always Remember

The '54 Advertising Staff

We'll Remember our $1700 goal and be grateful to those businessmen whose interest in Fairfax High School helped 1954 be a successful SAMPLER year . . . The staff willingly donated their Saturdays and afternoons to the yearbook as they strived to meet their goal . . . Through last minute phone calls and the Cecil Wright Fan Club, we went over the top with . . .

4 SUCCESS RULES

Rule out useless regrets. Square away for the future.

Inches grow to feet and furlongs. Make your saved dollars grow to hundreds and thousands.

Measure the distance you want to go in life by the money you are able to save regularly.

Stand by your savings account — and your savings account will stand by you.
